Vegan Market sets up stall at Pollok

This weekend, vegan delights will be available from the National Trust for Scotland's Pollok House.

On Saturday 18 and Sunday 19 August, Pollok House will be hosting its first ever Vegan Market.

There will be an array of Scottish traders – mainly Glasgow based – showcasing their wares on the day.

Satisfying appetites will be Glasgow Kimchi, Lauriannes Raw Cakes, Missy's Vegan Cupcakes and FacePlant Foods. On hand to quench thirsts will be Tempo Tea Bar, Thistly Cross Cider, Cairn o' Mohr and Vegan Tipples.

Humblestuff Scotland's only producer of 100% handmade household cleaning products will be selling their unique range.

Clear Channel Reiki will be offering free reiki taster sessions on the day and Zero Waste Wise Glasgow will be on hand to educate and encourage attendees to change their behaviours on recycling and reducing food waste.

Lynne Watson, Visitor Services Manager, Glasgow said: "We're excited to host our first Vegan Market and support local businesses in the process. With such a wide selection of traders, there promises to be something for everyone."

The Edwardian Kitchen restaurant located along the Servant's Corridor of Pollok House will also be serving up tasty vegan treats and specials.
