

NATIONAL TRUST FOR SCOTLAND MEDIA RELEASE

6 June 2019

Have a happy Father's Day at Holmwood

This Father's Day, The National Trust for Scotland's Holmwood House in Cathcart, will play host to their Father's Day Activity Day.

On Sunday 16 June, Holmwood's Father's Day Activity Day will be full day of fun, food and family-friendly activities set in the grounds of Holmwood House.

There will be a whole host of exciting activities on offer, promising to entertain both kids and adults alike, including a bungee-run and beat the goalie – giving kids the opportunity to challenge their dads!

A DJ will be spinning the biggest hits and cheesiest tunes to keep the crowd on their feet and face painters will be on hand to create wonderful transformations.

A food truck will serve a delicious range of food and snacks and thirsts can be quenched courtesy of a prosecco van, which will serve both bubbly and beer.

Tiny tots don't need to miss out on the fun as there will be a ball pit and sensory chest for babies and toddlers to explore and play.

Lynne Watson, Visitor Services Manager Events, Glasgow, said: "We're really excited for our Father's Day Activity Day at Holmwood House. This day is all about families having fun and celebrating together. There's enough going on to keep the whole family entertained!"

Tea, coffee, cakes, juice and ice cream are available from the Holmwood House café.
